COUNSELOR'S CORNER

As the year ends and we prepare to welcome 2025, the guidance curriculum will focus on Character Development: Responsibility and Manners. I challenge every student to use their growth mindset and reflect on what they have accomplished and work harder toward things they need to improve. We grow our brains by making mistakes and learning from them. Mistakes give us the opportunity to use our critical thinking skills to do better. As a result, your child develops coping skills, self-regulation/self-management skills, and acceptance. So, think big! At home, allow your child to fix age-appropriate situations on their own instead of doing it for them. Another thing is to teach accountability—we are responsible for our own words and actions. Also, please be sure to support the family nights and info sessions we have planned. I wish you and your family a very Merry Christmas and a safe new year.

Please be sure to follow my Class DOJO for specific information or contact me, Ms. Clarkson, Elementary Counselor, at sclarkson@linwoodcharter.org.

IMPORTANT!

- Hoodies may not be worn on campus.
- All grades will be testing 12/2-12/19, attendance is mandatory.
- Thurs. Dec. 19th is a half day, school will dismiss at 12 noon
- NO SCHOOL Dec. 20th-Jan 6th and Jan. 20th
- Students should not be checked out from tutoring early. After 3 absences, your student will be dismissed from the program.

SOCIAL EMOTIONAL LEARNING

This month, intermediate students are getting started on Unit 3: Empathy and Kindness. Your student is learning how empathy and kindness can help them strengthen friendships as well as make new friends.

What to look for: Notice and praise your child when they talk about how other people may be feeling.

Discuss kind things that friends can do for each other. Take turns naming something kind that you did for a friend to show that you care about them, and then talk about a time a friend did something nice for you.
